

Computing Educators Oral History Project

Frank Young* video snippet transcript

Recorded March 2015

Available both via the ceohp.org website and on CEOHP's YouTube channel
<https://youtu.be/xnPNejfsC1k>

Copyright Statement

This manuscript is being made available for research purposes only. All literary rights in the manuscript, including the right to publish, are reserved to the Computing Educators Oral History Project. No part of the manuscript may be quoted for publication, except by the interviewee, without the written permission of the Director of the Computing Educators Oral History Project.

Request for permission to quote for publication should be addressed to Barbara Boucher Owens, either by email at ceohp@ceohp.org or via postal mail at Computing Educators Oral History Project, Southwestern University, P.O. Box 770, Georgetown, TX 78627-0770 USA. The request should identify the specific passages to be quoted, describe the anticipated use of the passages, and identify the requestor.

We recommend that this video transcript be cited as follows:

Young, Frank, "Story time with Frank" a video interview from 2015, Computing Educators Oral History Project. Online: ceohp.org.

Story time with Frank

When I taught Software Engineering at Rose-Hulman, I used to tell lots of stories because I didn't have that much background in software engineering. And the course got an interesting name. It was "Story time with Frank." I thought that telling stories was an important part of Computer Science education because those stories were stories that I had gotten from people who were real practitioners. And then when the students went out they would come back to me and give me more stories that I could tell to my classes. So it really was "story time with Frank"!